

Genpact Appoints Anu Sachdeva as Banking & Capital Markets Leader

Genpact has appointed Anu Sachdeva as its Banking & Capital Markets Leader, succeeding Jason Osborne, who is moving to a role outside Genpact. During his tenure, Jason provided outstanding leadership, strengthening client partnerships and capabilities while playing an important role in the business's growth.

Anu brings more than two decades of experience at Genpact and has been a key member of its leadership team, with deep expertise across banking, transformation, client relationships, and business development. Her extensive industry and client experience positions her to lead the business.

As banks accelerate transformation and move from AI experimentation to scaled adoption, Anu will focus on bringing together domain expertise, technology, and AI to help clients navigate this shift and deliver greater business outcomes. Banking & Capital Markets remains a strategic priority for Genpact, with significant opportunities to innovate, grow, and strengthen its position in the industry.

Genpact thanks Jason for his leadership and contributions and wishes him every success in his next chapter. Anu will build on the strong foundation established during his tenure, continuing to create value for clients across the Banking & Capital Markets industry.
